

US, Israel launch attack on Iran as Trump announces 'major combat operations'

The United States and Israel launched a massive coordinated military offensive targeting Iran known as "Operation Epic Fury."

Covered by: Efrat Lachter, Morgan Phillips, Benjamin Weinthal, Michael Sinkewicz, Alexandra Koch, Rachel Wolf, Michael Dorgan, Elizabeth Elkind, Alex Miller and Amanda Macias

February 28, 2026, 9:02 AM EST

President Donald Trump had warned of possible U.S. intervention in response to deadly anti-regime protests and if Iran did not accept a sweeping nuclear deal.

WHAT TO KNOW

* President Donald Trump confirmed Saturday that the U.S. is carrying out "major combat operations in Iran." In a video posted to Truth Social, Trump said the objective is to defend Americans by eliminating imminent threats from the Iranian regime, describing it as "a vicious group of very hard, terrible people."

* In his message, Trump urged the Iranian regime to "lay down" its weapons or "face certain death." Calling it their "only chance for generations," Trump urged the people of Iran to "take over your government" after the operation.

* The United States military attack against the Iran is named "Operation Epic Fury." Israel, which coordinated the daytime morning blitz with the U.S., announced the Jewish State's mission as "Operation Roaring Lion."

* The joint military operation is expected to carry on for days. Officials tell Fox News that Israel is targeting Iranian leadership, while the U.S. is targeting military targets and ballistic missile sites that pose an "imminent threat."

Israel releases video of airstrikes in Iran

The Israel Defense Forces (IDF) on Saturday published a video of its airstrike on missile launchers in western Iran as Israel and the U.S. take part in a joint effort against Tehran.

"Within the 'Roaring Lion' operation, the IDF struck with the direction of IDF intelligence, hundreds of Iranian military targets, including missile launchers in western Iran," the IDF's statement read.

"Alongside the IAF's strikes in Iran, the Aerial Defense Array is currently identifying and intercepting threats fired from Iran toward the State of Israel," the IDF added.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

Trump admin briefed House Speaker Mike Johnson ahead of Iran strikes

Speaker Mike Johnson was briefed ahead of the strikes on Iran, his spokesperson said. (Credit: Getty Images)

Speaker Mike Johnson, R-La., was notified by the Trump administration before strikes on Iran were carried out, a spokesperson told Fox News Digital on Saturday morning.

Johnson got a call from Secretary of State Marco Rubio before the joint operation between the U.S. and Israel began.

It's customary for an administration to brief congressional leadership before any significant military actions, which it also did when the U.S. engaged in an operation to capture Venezuelan President Nicolas Maduro weeks earlier.

The speaker has not yet made any comments on the Iran operation but is likely to do so sometime Saturday morning.

The only member of congressional leadership to have released a statement so far is House Majority Whip Tom Emmer, R-Minn., who praised it as a "bold and decisive act of strength."

Posted by Elizabeth Elkind

Iran retaliates with missile strikes at US facilities in multiple countries

Iran has started retaliating after the U.S. and Israel launched Operation Epic Fury early Saturday morning.

Fox News' Jennifer Griffin reported that approximately 40 missiles had landed in Israel. Meanwhile, the U.S. military in Iraq intercepted at least one missile targeting U.S. facilities. Additionally, Iran appeared to hit the U.S. Navy's Fifth Fleet, but no casualties were reported and it appeared as though the regime struck an empty warehouse.

Iran also launched missiles at Saudi Arabia and Jordan, where the U.S. has squadrons of advanced fighter jets, Griffin reported. This led to condemnations from Jordan, the U.A.E. and others.

Omani Foreign Minister Sayyid Badr bin Hamad Al Busaidi said on X that he was "dismayed" by the attacks after her recently mediated indirect talks between the U.S. and Iran.

"I am dismayed. Active and serious negotiations have yet again been undermined. Neither the interests of the United States nor the cause of global peace are well served by this. And I pray for the innocents who will suffer. I urge the United States not to get sucked in further. This is not your war," the foreign minister said.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

Oman's Foreign Ministry expresses 'profound regret' as US, Israel hit Iran

Majid Asgaripour/WANA (West Asia News Agency) via Reuters

The Omani Foreign Ministry condemned Operation Epic Fury, which the U.S. and Israel launched against Iran on Saturday.

"The Ministry of Foreign Affairs expresses the Sultanate of Oman's profound regret over the military operations launched by Israel and the United States of America against the Islamic Republic of Iran, warning of the danger of the conflict expanding into consequences that cannot be rectified in the region," the Omani Foreign Ministry said in a statement, according to X's translation.

"The Sultanate of Oman considers this action to be in contravention of the rules of international law and the principle of resolving issues through peaceful means rather than hostile means, the shedding of blood, and calls on all parties to immediately suspend military operations, while urging the United Nations Security Council to convene an urgent meeting to impose a ceasefire and for the international community to take a clear stance in support of international law," it added.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

Iran speaks out as US, Israel carry out Operation Epic Fury

Majid Asgaripour/WANA (West Asia News Agency) via Reuters

Iran's Foreign Ministry blasted the U.S. and Israel, which began carrying out Operation Epic Fury on Saturday.

"Our sacred and beloved homeland, proud and civilization-making Iran, has once again been subjected to criminal military aggression by the #UnitedStates and the #ZionistRegime," Iran's Foreign Ministry said in a statement posted on X.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry called the attacks by the U.S. and Israel "a gross violation of Iran's territorial integrity and national sovereignty."

Iran also called on the United Nations and the Security Council, where the U.S. has veto power, to act as the attacks unfold. Tehran claimed that the attacks by the U.S. and Israel, which it calls "the Zionist regime" were carried out in violation of the U.N. Charter.

"All member states of the United Nations, especially regional and Islamic countries, members of the Non-Aligned Movement, and all states that feel responsible for international peace and security, are expected to firmly condemn this act of aggression and take urgent and collective action to confront it, which has undoubtedly exposed the peace and security of the region and the world to an unprecedented threat," Iran's Foreign Ministry said.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

Emmer makes first statement from congressional leadership on Iran strikes

House Majority Whip Tom Emmer, R-Minn., is praising President Donald Trump after the U.S. and Israel began joint strikes on Iran overnight.

"This is a bold, decisive act of strength by President Trump. The Ayatollah is responsible for killing hundreds of U.S. service members and slaughtering its own people," Emmer told Fox News Digital.

"We pray that because of this leadership, the U.S. and the world will be a safer place. May God bless and protect the men and women of our military conducting this mission and serving in the region."

It's the first significant statement on the operation from a member of congressional leadership.

Emmer has been one of Trump's most vocal allies on Capitol Hill so far this term.

Posted by Elizabeth Elkind

Qatar reserves 'full right' to defend itself against 'Iranian aggression,' calls for dialogue

A plume of smoke rises following a reported explosion in Tehran on Feb. 28, 2026. (ATTA KENARE/AFP via Getty Images)

Qatar's Foreign Ministry said it reserves its "full right" to defend itself after what it described as Iranian aggression targeting Qatari territory.

Qatar's Defense Ministry said it had "successfully thwarted a number of attacks targeting the country's territory" after multiple rounds of alerts sounded. Authorities reported no immediate injuries or damage in residential areas.

In a statement, Qatar's Foreign Ministry said the state will respond in accordance with international law and in a manner proportionate to the nature of the attack, in defense of its sovereignty and national security.

The ministry said targeting Qatari territory contradicts the "principles of good neighborliness" and "cannot be accepted under any pretext or justification."

Qatar also condemned what it described as violations of the sovereignty of Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Jordan and Bahrain, expressing full solidarity with those nations.

Despite the escalation, the ministry reiterated its call for dialogue with Iran and urged an immediate halt to hostilities and a return to negotiations.

Blasts were reported across several Gulf states hosting U.S. military assets, including Qatar, according to Al Jazeera, after the United States and Israel launched military strikes across Iranian territory.

The outlet cited Iran's Fars News Agency as confirming attacks targeting military bases in the region, including Al Udeid Air Base in Qatar, which serves as the forward headquarters of U.S. Central Command.

Posted by Michael Dorgan

Ukraine declares its support for the Iranian people, ties the regime to Russia in scathing statement

"The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Ukraine confirms the unchanged position of our state: we support the Iranian people and their legitimate desire to live in security, freedom and prosperity.

"The Iranian regime, which has been mocking the Iranian people for decades, has launched a large-scale policy of violence against its own people and other countries. This includes massive human rights violations within the country, support for militants who have brought chaos to other countries in the region, and direct military support for the aggressor state of Russia in its unprovoked war of aggression against Ukraine. We remember and will never forget the strikes of thousands of "Shaheeds" on our peaceful cities and people.

"Such cooperation between the regimes in Moscow and Tehran constitutes a gross violation of international law and undermines global efforts to restore peace and stability.

"Long-term systematic violations of human rights, brutal repression, executions and persecution of dissidents testify to the deep crisis of the internal policy of this state and the lack of proper protection of the basic rights and freedoms of its citizens.

"The regime spent enormous resources precisely on violence, murder and chaos, and not on providing for its own people, whose economic situation continued to deteriorate every year. As the President of Ukraine has repeatedly emphasized, the Iranian regime should have gone long ago.

"The reason for the current events is precisely the violence and arbitrariness of the Iranian regime, in particular the murders and repressions against peaceful protesters, which have become particularly large-scale in recent months.

"We emphasize that the regime in Tehran had every opportunity to prevent a violent scenario. It was given opportunities for diplomacy and finding solutions, but the regime ignored these efforts and instead only stalled for time in the hope of misleading the international community.

"We reaffirm our unwavering position: we wish security, prosperity, and freedom to the Iranian people, as well as stability and prosperity to the Middle East. We thank everyone in the world who has supported and continues to support the Iranian people in this difficult time."

Ukraine ripped the Iranian regime and its ties to Russia in a statement on Saturday, as it also declared its support for the people of Iran.

"The Iranian regime, which has been mocking the Iranian people for decades, has launched a large-scale policy of violence against its own people and other countries. This includes massive human rights violations within the country, support for militants who have brought chaos to other countries in the region, and direct military support for the aggressor state of Russia in its unprovoked war of aggression against Ukraine. We remember and will never forget the strikes of thousands of 'Shaheeds' on our peaceful cities and people," Ukraine's Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MFA) said in a statement.

"Such cooperation between the regimes in Moscow and Tehran constitutes a gross violation of international law and undermines global efforts to restore peace and stability."

The Ukrainian MFA also condemned Iran's human rights abuses as well as the oppression of its own people.

"The reason for the current events is precisely the violence and arbitrariness of the Iranian regime, in particular the murders and repressions against peaceful protesters, which have become particularly large-scale in recent months," the statement read.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

NYPD 'closely monitoring' the situation in Iran and the Middle East

The New York Police Department (NYPD) said it is "closely monitoring" the situation unfolding in Iran as the U.S. and Israel participate in joint attacks. The department also said that it was coordinating with its federal and international partners.

"As is our protocol and out of an abundance of caution, we will be enhancing patrols to sensitive locations throughout the city, including diplomatic, cultural, religious, and other relevant sites," the NYPD's statement read.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

Iranian group releases plan to turn country into a democratic republic amid US, Israel strikes

The provisional government of National Council of Resistance of Iran's (NCRI), an Iranian dissidents group, said on Saturday that it was looking to transform the country from a dictatorship into a democratic republic based on its president-elect's plan.

The 10-point plan was released by NCRI's president-elect Maryam Rajavi in June 2020 and it outlines the steps needed in order to bring freedom to Iran.

The first step of the plan calls for the rejection of clerical rule in favor of a republic built on "universal suffrage and pluralism." The second step calls for freedom of speech, political parties, assembly, the press and the internet, as well as the disbanding of several entities, namely the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC), the Quds Force, plainclothes groups, the Basij, the Ministry of Intelligence, the Council of the Cultural Revolution and all suppressive patrols and institutions in cities, villages, schools, universities, offices and factories.

The third step involves a commitment to individual and social freedom, which Rajavi says will be in accordance with the Universal Declaration of Humans Rights. This would involve the disbanding of agencies that oversee "censorship and inquisition" as well as "seeking justice for massacred political prisoners," as well as the prohibition of torture and the end of the death penalty. The fourth step then calls for a separation of church and state, as well as freedom of religion.

In the fifth step, Rajavi seeks to establish gender equality in several parts of society and to allow for the "equal participation of women in political leadership." This step would also abolish discrimination, end the country's modesty laws, allow for freedom to marry and divorce and to obtain education and employment. It also would prohibit the exploitation of women.

The sixth step would establish an independent jury and legal system in accordance with international standards that is based on the presumption of innocence, as well as the right to an attorney, right of appeal and the right to be tried in a public court. With this step, Rajavi plans to also abolish Sharia law and shut down Islamic Revolutionary Courts.

The seventh step would see the end of Iran's "double injustices against Iranian nationalities and ethnicities," which would follow NCRI's plan for the autonomy of Iranian Kurdistan.

The eighth step calls for justice and equal opportunities in employment and entrepreneurship for all Iranians in a free market economy, restoring rights for blue-collar workers, farmers, nurses, white-collar workers, teachers and retirees.

In the ninth step, the group seeks to protect and restore the environment, which it says was "massacred under the rule of the mullahs."

The tenth and final step calls for "non-nuclear Iran that is also devoid of weapons of mass destruction" as well as peace and regional and international cooperation.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

Iran vows 'decisive' retaliation after US, Israel launch strikes

Smoke rises over Tehran after Israeli forces launched a second wave of airstrikes on Iran, Feb. 28, 2026. (Fatemeh Bahrami/Anadolu via Getty Images)

Iran's Foreign Ministry vowed a "decisive and definitive" response Saturday after the United States and Israel launched military strikes across Iranian territory.

The ministry called the attacks a violation of the U.N. Charter and warned that its armed forces "will not hesitate" to defend the country, vowing to make "the aggressors regret their criminal act."

"The armed forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran will decisively respond to the aggressors with authority," the ministry said.

"History bears witness that Iranians have never bowed their heads in submission to foreign aggression and domination; this time too, the response of the Iranian nation will be decisive and definitive," it added.

The ministry said the strikes hit targets in several cities and amounted to "overt armed aggression."

It said responding to the attacks is Iran's "legal and legitimate right" under Article 51 of the U.N. Charter and that its armed forces will use all their capabilities and resources to counter what it described as "criminal aggression."

Posted by Michael Dorgan

Strikes on Iran will last days, not hours, US official says

A U.S. official has told Fox News that the strikes on Iran are expected to last for days, rather than a few hours.

Additionally, the official and a source confirmed to Fox News that there were no casualties resulting from Iran hit's on a U.S. Navy base in Bahrain. The source said the strike hit an empty warehouse.

Saudi Arabia condemns Iran's strikes on Trump-aligned Arab states

Saudi Arabia on Saturday issued a statement condemning Iran's attacks on several Arab nations, including ones that have aligned themselves with President Donald Trump. The statement comes as the U.S. and Israel engage in joint attacks on Iran.

"The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia condemns and denounces in the strongest terms the treacherous Iranian aggression and the blatant violation of the sovereignty of each of the United Arab Emirates, the Kingdom of Bahrain, the State of Qatar, the State of Kuwait, and the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, affirming its full solidarity and standing by the side of the sister states, and placing all its capabilities at their disposal to support them in all measures they take, and warning of the grave consequences of the continued violation of the sovereignty of states and the principles of international law," the statement read, according to X's translation.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

IDF plans to call up roughly 70,000 reservists following US-Israel joint attack on Iran: source

An IDF tactical flag patch seen on a soldier. (Nataly Hanin/Getty)

A source who took part in a recent Israeli military meeting told Fox News there are plans to call up roughly 70,000 reservists over the next few days, following a joint US-Israel attack on Iran.

As incoming fire is expected from Iran, the reservists will be tasked with manning the Israel Defense Forces (IDF)'s air defense systems, according to the source.

Dozens of strikes were reportedly carried out against Iran Saturday morning, with the source noting the military is operating at the "highest level with American counterparts."

Many Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) commanders and officials were targeted in strikes, according to initial reports.

Fox News' chief foreign correspondent Trey Yingst contributed to this report.

Posted by Alexandra Koch

Former shah of Iran calls joint US-Israel attack 'humanitarian intervention' from POTUS

Reza Pahlavi, the former crown prince of Iran, described the joint US-Israel attack on the country as promised "aid," and an act of "humanitarian intervention" by President Donald Trump.

Following the reported nationwide strikes, Pahlavi called on Iranian citizens to abandon support for the regime, and the U.S. to "exercise the utmost caution" to preserve civilian lives.

"Moments of destiny lie ahead of us," Pahlavi wrote in a statement on social media. "... Even with the arrival of this aid, the final victory will still be forged by our hands. It is we, the people of Iran, who will finish the job in this final battle. The time to return to the streets is near."

"Now that the Islamic Republic is collapsing, my message to the country's military, police, and security forces is clear: You have sworn an oath to protect Iran and the Iranian people — not the Islamic Republic and its leaders," he continued. "Your duty is to defend the people, not a regime that has taken our homeland hostage through repression and crime. Join the people and help bring about a stable and secure transition."

Otherwise, you will go down with Khamenei's sinking ship and his regime."

Pahlavi warned citizens to remain in their homes and stay vigilant, so that when he announces an "appropriate time," Iranians can "return to the streets for the final action."

"We are very close to final victory," he wrote. "I want to be by your side as soon as possible so that together we can take back and rebuild Iran."

Posted by Alexandra Koch

Iran's supreme leader, president targeted in attack: senior Israeli official

Map of explosions reported on Tehran street housing key military and presidential offices. (Fox News)

A senior Israeli official confirmed to Fox News Iranian Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei and President Masoud Pezeshkian were targeted in Saturday's joint U.S.-Israel attack on Iran.

The official noted military forces also focused on taking out "those responsible for commanding the mass murder of Iranian protesters."

"Battle damage assessments will come out later," the official said.

Posted by Alexandra Koch

If Khamenei falls, who takes Iran? Strikes will expose power vacuum — and the IRGC's grip

Office of the Iranian Supreme Leader via AP

As U.S. and Israeli forces strike deep inside Iran — reportedly targeting senior regime officials including Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei and President Masoud Pezeshkian — the question of who would lead Iran if the Islamic Republic collapses is no longer theoretical.

Iran has retaliated with missile barrages against U.S. positions across the Middle East, and while Iranian state media says top leaders remain alive and have been moved to secure locations, the direct targeting of political and military leadership marks a dramatic escalation.

Yet despite the intensity of the moment, regional analysts say there is no obvious successor poised to take control of the country.

Experts consistently point to one determining factor: whether Iran's coercive institutions — particularly the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) — fracture or consolidate.

If the IRGC remains cohesive, the most likely outcome is not democratic transition but a harder, more openly security-dominated system. A clerical reshuffle or military-led consolidation could preserve much of the existing power structure even if key figures are removed.

One of the most prominent opposition figures abroad is Reza Pahlavi, son of Iran's last shah. He has lived outside Iran since the 1979 revolution and has spent decades advocating for a secular, democratic system.

Posted by Morgan Phillips

Iran retaliates with missile strikes at US facilities in multiple countries

Iran has started retaliating after the U.S. and Israel launched Operation Epic Fury early Saturday morning.

Fox News' Jennifer Griffin reported that approximately 40 missiles had landed in Israel. Meanwhile, the U.S. military in Iraq intercepted at least one missile targeting U.S. facilities. Additionally, Iran appeared to hit the U.S. Navy's Fifth Fleet, but no casualties were reported and it appeared as though the regime struck an empty warehouse.

Iran also launched missiles at Saudi Arabia and Jordan, where the U.S. has squadrons of advanced fighter jets, Griffin reported. This led to condemnations from Jordan, the U.A.E. and others.

Omani Foreign Minister Sayyid Badr bin Hamad Al Busaidi said on X that he was "dismayed" by the attacks after her recently mediated indirect talks between the U.S. and Iran.

"I am dismayed. Active and serious negotiations have yet again been undermined. Neither the interests of the United States nor the cause of global peace are well served by this. And I pray for the innocents who will suffer. I urge the United States not to get sucked in further. This is not your war," the foreign minister said.

Posted by Rachel Wolf

State Dept urges US citizens to depart Lebanon now 'while commercial options remain available'

U.S. Embassy Beirut @usembassybeirut · Follow

If already in the country, the Department of State urges U.S. citizens to depart Lebanon now while commercial options remain available. We urge U.S. citizens not to travel to Lebanon.

Full message:

ib.usembassy.gov
Security Alert: U.S. Embassy Beirut February 28, 2026 - U.S. Embassy in Lebanon

Last edited 9:10 AM · Feb 28, 2026

The U.S. Embassy in Beirut has advised U.S. citizens still in Lebanon to leave "while commercial options remain available" as the U.S. and Israel hit Iran with Operation Epic Fury. Additionally, the embassy urged U.S. citizens not to travel to Lebanon.

"Americans who choose not to depart at this time should prepare contingency plans should the situation deteriorate. These alternative plans should not rely on the U.S. government for assisted departure or evacuation," the embassy said in a statement. "We recommend that U.S. citizens who choose not to depart be prepared to shelter in place should the situation deteriorate further."

Posted by Rachel Wolf

House Democrat defends Trump's strikes on Iran: 'Stop them from taking more lives'

Congressman Greg Landsman @RepGregLandsman · Follow

The U.S. is destroying Iran's missiles and bombs to stop them from taking more lives. 🇺🇸 🙌

9:13 AM · Feb 28, 2026

President Donald Trump's strikes in Iran got rare Democratic support on Saturday morning.

Rep. Greg Landsman, D-Ohio, released a statement pointing out that Tehran has long destabilized the Middle East and that the U.S.

strikes were "targeting military infrastructure – with warnings to Iranian civilians to take shelter away from these military targets."

"The U.S. is destroying Iran's missiles and bombs to stop them from taking more lives," Landsman said. "For decades, the regime has caused mayhem and bloodshed through Hezbollah in Lebanon, Hamas in Gaza, the Houthis in Yemen – all while the people of Iran have suffered. When the Iranian people stood up to protest the regime last month, the regime murdered tens of thousands of its own people."

"I want a lasting peace for everyone in the region – from the Iranian people to the Lebanese, Palestinians, Syrians, Iraqis, Jordanians, and Israelis. I hope these targeted strikes on the Iranian regime's military assets ends the regime's mayhem and bloodshed and makes way for this lasting peace in the region."

While not mentioning Trump directly, he thanked U.S. service members in the region and said, "May peace emerge from all of this."

Posted by Elizabeth Elkind

What is the Tomahawk missile? The weapon that opened the US strike on Iran

The USS Barry launches a Tomahawk cruise missile on March 29, 2011, from the Mediterranean Sea. (US Navy photo)

The first missile in the U.S. arsenal used against Iranian targets in Saturday's pre-dawn strike was the Tomahawk, a long-range cruise missile launched from Navy ships and submarines.

About half the length of a standard telephone pole, the Tomahawk flies at the speed of a commercial airliner and can carry a 1,000-pound warhead about the distance from Washington, D.C., to Miami.

The missile has been a mainstay of the Navy's arsenal since the 1980s and was first used in combat during the 1991 Gulf War. In the decades since, it has become a go-to option for presidents seeking to strike targets from long range without putting U.S. service members in harm's way.

"Tomahawks are the longest-range cruise missile we have and the one presidents reach for first and often," said Thomas Karako, director of the Missile Defense Project at the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

But demand has outpaced supply, he noted.

"We've been using them far more frequently than we've been producing them," he added.

Overall, the Tomahawk has been deployed more than 2,300 times.

Posted by Amanda Macias

Other Headlines

Dem compares Trump's Iran strikes to same 'foolish decision' made by Bush

Fetterman praises Operation Epic Fury: Trump is 'willing to do what's right'

Leader Thune backs Trump's strikes in Iran despite 'dogged pursuit' by administration to resolve peace

Rand Paul bucks Trump on Iran, 'I must oppose another Presidential war'

Europe's top powers push diplomacy after strikes on Iran

Omar accuses Trump of 'illegal regime change war'

Kaine demands Senate return, immediately vote to curb Trump's 'idiotic' strikes in Iran

Trump critic Carney expresses support for US and Israel's strikes on Iran

Graham says Saudi recognition of Israel would be historic reset as 'mothership of terrorism' falls

Departure flights for US military families in Bahrain paused after missile attack

Schumer demands Iran briefing for Congress, calls on Senate to immediately return to rein in Trump

Israel launches new strikes on Iranian missile launchers

Civilian casualty claims mount after reported Iran school strike, CENTCOM opens review

UK to convene United Nations security meeting in NYC as US, Israel attack Iran

